OTR SUPPORT OF THE USAF COURSE

The Office of Training has assured the Air Force that it will provide, for both the 12 December and January runnings of the USAF Course, one full-time instructor who will tutor Air Force instructors in specific lectures, and who will also give instruction. If necessary, the Office of Training could also provide an additional instructor to give those lectures which Air Force instructors cannot handle. The Air Force has tentatively agreed that Air Force instructors now taking the course should aid in conducting the January course. It will reach a final decision on the proposed arrangement this week.
